THE SHIFT HUB: THE NORTHEAST LEADING THE ENERGY TRANSITION

The seventh edition of Intersolar Brasil Nordeste will be held in Fortaleza in 2027, showcasing the region's potential in solar, wind, and green hydrogen energy. The region's success in attracting investment is fuelled by its favourable climate, strategic infrastructure (such as the Port of Pecém), and prime location for exports. The Northeast accounts for 52% of Brazil's installed solar capacity and hosts six of the country's ten largest producers. It also leads the sector's future, with roughly 65% of Brazil's new projects and authorised expansions concentrated in the Northeast. Ceará spearheads agreements for green hydrogen production, supported by the Pecém Complex terminal. The outlook for investment is highly favourable, with demand for energy transition projects exceeding initial expectations by a factor of 13. The event in Fortaleza will offer a regional preview for discussions that will be expanded nationally at The smarter E South America 2027, scheduled for August in São Paulo.

BE AT THE FOREFRONT OF SOLAR EXPERTISE

The conference will explore profound regulatory and technological changes in the Brazilian electricity sector, debating strategic issues such as the impact of full market liberalisation on the solar industry and solutions for curtailment in large-scale power plants. The conference program will also address grid stability via energy storage and smart inverters, the challenges posed by high renewable penetration in distributed generation, and the energy infrastructure required to meet the growing demand of data centres.
